President's Message

After some traveling that has made me enjoy two different spring seasons this year and given me a taste of early snow recently in Seattle, I am back in our region to face some more cold weather and snow for the next few months. However, I am always hopeful that some interesting and intriguing plants will brighten up the days of winter. As a matter of fact, a number of complex paphiopedilums and some species from the southern hemisphere are trying to do so right now in my growing area. As always, I will try to bring these to our show table so you can see them.

This year STOS has been successful in organizing a fantastic show, it has featured a list of well known speakers, produced a dynamic website and has increased its membership. As this year ends, we are planning to have another successful year but this can only be accomplished by having your help and cooperation. Since our organization is based on volunteer help, we rely on you and I should remind you that dues for 2007 will be collected very soon. If you enjoy the activities we have managed to bring to you, please help us to keep the quality of work we have achieved.

Our next meeting on December 17, 2006 at 2 p.m. will be held at the Vestal Public Library. As in previous years this is our Holiday Party and we ask you to bring your spouse or other persons dear to you. Again, we ask you that you bring a dish to share and a serving spoon. If this party has the markings of previous ones, there will be plenty to eat and good conversation to enjoy. In order to decorate the tables, we request that you bring plants you have in flower and if you want to help with table set up, please come to the meeting room by 1:15 p.m. since there will be plenty to do.

As a preview of our January 2007 meeting, STOS is pleased to announce Tom Daily of CNYOS who will present a program titled IPM for Orchids: Integrated Pest Management for Orchids. Further details will follow in the January 2007 newsletter.

Enjoy the holidays and happy growing.

Luis J. Matienzo, President

Editor's Note: I did the best I could deciphering everyone's handwriting. I don't pretend to be an orchid expert, so sometimes I had to guess as to proper spelling and/or whether plants were species or hybrids. To facilitate proper listing of your plants, please print clearly and be sure to use both upper and lower cases to distinguish between species and hybrids. Thanks! R.S.

❧❧ HOLIDAY PARTY ❧❧
Sunday, December 17th, 2:00 p.m.

We'd like to welcome everyone – members, friends, and their families – to our annual winter holiday get-together in our customary meeting room at the Vestal Public Library. On this festive occasion, we will furnish a meat and cheese platter, rolls, hot and cold beverages, and disposable table service (plates, cups, flatware, and napkins).

To round out the menu, all we ask is that you bring a dish of your own choosing to pass, whatever utensils may be needed to serve your dish and an orchid plant in flower to decorate the table. Even without coordinating who should bring what dish, our food table has been filled with quite an array of holiday fare, such as appetizers, main dishes, salads, casseroles, and desserts.

We hope that all of you will come on Sunday the 18th and celebrate the season with us. If you can't join us, we wish you very happy and safe holidays, and hope to see you in January.
